The Nova Scotia Nature Trust is a charitable land conservation organization dedicated to protecting significant natural areas on private lands throughout the province. Since 1994, the Nature Trust has been protecting critical and threatened natural areas ranging from old growth forests and coastal islands to rich floodplains and rare plant habitat. To achieve our goal of protecting natural areas in Nova Scotia, the Nature Trust works at the community level to pursue conservation easements, cooperative agreements with landowners, and land securement and stewardship. To find out more about the Nature Trust, please call us at 425-5263 or visit our website at www.nsnt.ca.

Keynote – Justin Trudeau

Justin Trudeau, son of the late Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, is an avid outdoor enthusiast and environmentalist. He is currently pursuing a Master's Degree in Environmental Geography at McGill University in Montreal.

Justin has always loved the outdoors, working as a camp counsellor in Algonquin Park, a whitewater river guide on the Rouge River near Montreal, and a snowboard instructor at Whistler-Blackcomb. As a director of the Canadian Avalanche Foundation, he promotes intelligent risk-taking and awareness regarding wilderness safety and back-country adventuring.

Justin is also the chair of Katimavik, our national youth service program, where he works to increase the engagement of Canada's youth with their country, their communities and their environment. He also supports wilderness conservation through wilderness organizations including the Nature Conservancy of Canada and the Canadian Parks and Wilderness Society.

Master of Ceremonies – Carmen Klassen

Carmen Klassen is the energetic host of CBC Radio's Mainstreet, a lively and entertaining blend of national and regional news, interviews, book reviews and recipes.
