

Celebrate World Water Day with the Nature Trust!

This Sunday (March 22) is World Water Day, an international day dedicated to celebrating fresh water, and its importance to the planet and its inhabitants.

The Nature Trust is celebrating this special day by announcing the permanent protection of The Devils Jaw Conservation Lands, a new 120 hectare conservation property on the Herbert River, Hants County, NS. This property is an important freshwater habitat, with diverse wildlife species, and important and exciting recreational opportunities.

Looking for ways to Celebrate World Water Day?

- Get out and enjoy Nature in Nova Scotia: For anyone keen to experience and explore this latest addition to Nova Scotia's freshwater legacy, the Nature Trust and Canoe Kayak Nova Scotia are hosting a guided canoe trip on the Herbert River in September.
- In July, join us for a nature walk exploring the old growth and Acadian floodplain forests and wildlife habitats on new conservation lands on the beautiful St. Mary's River.
- Lend a helping hand: Volunteer with the Nature Trust. We are currently seeking volunteer "conservation guardians" to help in stewarding several of our freshwater conservation sites. Contact alice@nsnt.ca or call (902) 425-5263.
- Donate to the Fresh Water Campaign: To support of the protection and long-term stewardship of the Devils Jaw Conservation Lands or other Nature Trust conservation projects across the province, visit www.nsnt.ca or call (902) 425-5263.
